

Don't Let Out-of-Network Providers
Put Profits Over Patients.

Defend the No Surprises Act.

As lawsuits threaten to weaken the No Surprises Act, we urge the Administration to defend this important law and implement it as proposed to ensure critical surprise billing protections for patients and lower health care costs.

Congress passed the No Surprises Act to put an end to costly surprise medical bills that harm patients. The Biden Administration's latest rules have made that a reality – and must be defended.

Since Jan. 1, 2022, millions of Americans have been protected from the threat and financial harm of surprise medical bills. Reinforcing these important consumer protections – especially preventing abuse of the independent dispute resolution process – is essential for patients to see the full benefits of the No Surprises Act.

The Coalition Against Surprise Medical Billing members and its allies call on the Biden Administration to ensure that American patients, families, employees and union members have comprehensive safeguards in place against the flawed business practices of private equity firms and out-of-network providers.

The message is clear. Patients waited far too long for these protections and cannot afford to have them undone. The Administration must ensure consumers see the full benefits of the No Surprises Act by implementing critical safeguards and cost-savings measures.

Defend the No Surprises Act and protect patients from higher health care costs.

The Coalition Against Surprise Medical Billing's members and allies urge the Biden Administration to put patients first throughout the surprise billing rulemaking process.
